- Speak extemporaneously
- Handle audience questions
- Learn a repeatable practice method
- Reduce pre-presentation nerves

Workshop Overview

The program is designed to allow participants to work on their own material, making the session extremely relevant and practical. If participants don't have material of their own, they can choose from several real-world business presentation prompts.

Based on the book by
Tommy Re

We've incorporated 6 opportunities to practice presenting. Each opportunity allows participants to apply concept and explore a variety of speaking situations from introductions to their final presentation. We create a safe and fun environment that fosters creativity and builds confidence.

Day 1 Activities

- Make a great first impression with your introduction
- Present your presentation plan at the flipchart
- Go scriptless and speak at a moment's notice

Day 2 Activities

- Explain the chart: Make complex data easy to understand
- Start smart: Show us your creative opening
- Stand and deliver: Your final presentation

Why Vital Communication?

Learn from the Pros

We are passionate about helping business professionals master business communication skills. Our facilitators have years of experience as practitioners, leaders, and trainers.

Practice & Feedback

Everyone in our workshops gets thoughtful and constructive feedback. We help learners focus on continuous improvement by creating a safe environment for them to build their skills through live practice.

Fun & Engaging

We all learn best when we're having fun. We promise our training programs will engage learners. No stuffy snoozefest here. Our programs are lively and fast-paced, and our facilitators are relatable and energetic.

Practical & Pragmatic

All of our programs address the core, common, and critical business communication challenges your learner's experience. We use real-world examples and cases in all of our programs.

Tips, Tools & Techniques

Our programs include plenty of resources to help learners apply what they learn, including workbooks and job aids. Become a member of our learning community and receive access to valuable learning sustainment resources.

Research-Based

Our programs are grounded in social science research and practical experience. We are students of communication and continue to read, review, and contribute to the body of knowledge in organizational communication.
